Running (continuous) sutures. A running suture, also known as a continuous suture, consists of one strand of suture material that runs for a lengthy distance along a wound, normally in a zigzag pattern, which is tied at either end. This suture resembles those used on baseballs, and so, they are sometimes called baseball sutures.

Questioning the Story: Did Jeff Bauman really go to the finish line to wait for his girlfriend? Yes. Like in the Stronger Boston Marathon movie, the true story confirms that Jeff went to the finish line to wait for his girlfriend Erin Hurley to finish the race. He did not run in the marathon himself.
