Delayed Monsoon By Paul

The monsoon of South Asia is among several geographically distributed global monsoons. It affects the Indian subcontinent, where it is one of the oldest and most anticipated weather phenomena and an economically important pattern every year from June through September, but it is only partly understood and notoriously difficult to predict. Several theories have been proposed to explain the ...

Most of the climate models project a decrease in precipitation in dry season and an increase during the monsoon in South Asia (Christensen et al., 2007). This causes extreme droughts in this region; along with other disasters Bangladesh and Nepal have already shown an increased frequency of droughts in recent years (). Ever-increasing exploitation of water resources and consequent water scarcity ...
