Typical scientific calculators calculate the logarithms to bases 10 and e. Logarithms with respect to any base b can be determined using either of these two logarithms by the previous formula: $\log_b x = \frac{\log x}{\log b}$. Given a number x and its logarithm $\log_b x$ to an unknown base b, the base is given by: $b = x^{\frac{1}{\log_b x}}$, which can be seen from taking the defining equation $x = b^{\log_b x}$ to the power of $\frac{1}{\log_b x}$.

In mathematics, the binary logarithm ($\log_2 n$) is the power to which the number 2 must be raised to obtain the value n. That is, for any real number x, $2^{\log_2 x} = x$. For example, the binary logarithm of 1 is 0, the binary logarithm of 2 is 1, the binary logarithm of 4 is 2, and the binary logarithm of 32 is 5.. The binary logarithm is the logarithm to the base 2.

Base Is Base a database? Not technically. Database applications often incorporate separate "front-end" and back-end components. Base is no exception. This two-tiered software model provides flexibility and the necessary data-durability. It involves separating the graphical user-interface (GUI front-end) from the core database functionality (database engine back-end).
